Wheat's Helps at Local Park

Clemyjontri Park is a unique playground that features a carousel, picnic pavilion, and many wonderful structures that allows all children to play together. This special playground is one of Mclean's best features, as it is accessible for children with wheelchairs, walkers and braces. This 18-acre place was generously donated by Mrs. Lebowitz and named after her four children, Carolyn (CL),

Emily (EMY), John (JON) and Petrina (TRI).

Due to budget cuts and the loss of resources to properly maintain the grounds. The park authority approached Wheat's Landscape for help. Without hesitation, Wheat's quickly agreed to donate services.

Wheat's walked through the park with Clemyjontri's park manager, and established what needed to be done. It was clear that this park was in desperate need of help. Wheat's donated the time and resources to clean up, prune overgrown shrubs and trees, and weed and mulch the beds.

Clemyjontri Park is now back to its original state of beauty and the our children can continue to enjoy this hidden jewel of Mclean.
